

All-Pro Tutoring & Test Prep

Fall, 2023 Course Dates

While many colleges are now test optional, the early data has shown students who submit SAT or ACT test scores have an admissions advantage and may be eligible for scholarships.

Test optional colleges do not require SAT or ACT scores but will still review and consider them as part of your application. It does not mean that SAT and ACT scores are no longer important. Only schools that are "test blind" do not look at standardized test scores at all. Only 3.7% of colleges in the United States are test blind.

All-Pro Tutoring and Test Prep strongly urge students to continue to prepare for and take the SAT or ACT test.
