Building News:

Shrek: The Musical/Auditorium Dedication:

A special thanks to the Music Art and Theater Departments for a successful run of "Shrek: The Musical". The kids' performances were incredible.

On Friday, February 17th the High School Auditorium was dedicated to Robert B. Russell in a heartfelt ceremony. Thanks goes out to Mr. Casseri, the Art Department and Lewiston-Porter Graduate Dan Buttery (Black Lab Metal Fabrication).

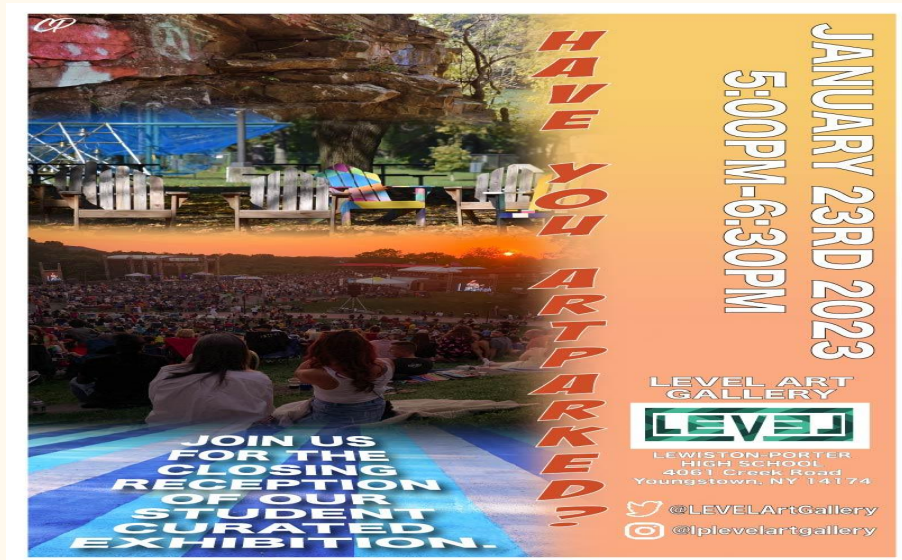

Valentine's Day:

Thank you to Sue Baer who decorated the teacher's mailboxes. Even in retirement Sue has given her time to make sure everyone in the High School feels special. She was also given her time to train members of the office staff.

Freshman Academy:

During our monthly meeting we began work on a Late Work Policy to help students manage and organize time better. The final document will be messaged to students and parents/guardians.

“Have You Artparked?”:

Lewiston-Porter High School is hosting its first annual Career Expo on Wednesday, March 22, 2023 from 1:15 PM – 2:39 PM

An important objective of the high school Business Education Department is to provide students with real-world exposure to college and career opportunities available after graduation. The mandatory high school course, Career & Financial Management, is a valuable first step in introducing students to the world of work. But now, through this event, students from 9th through 12th grade will have an opportunity to speak one-on-one with individuals in a variety of occupations and career pathways in the hopes of sparking an interest or answering questions regarding a budding career choice.

Lewiston-Porter Business Education department is looking for volunteers to participate in the following areas:

- Individuals from any career background, currently working or retired, who are interested in talking to students about their work experiences,
- Trade workers or organizations who can discuss the benefits of skills-based training and occupations,
- Military personnel who can talk with students about the process of joining the U.S. armed services, and
- College representatives who would like to present their institutions' academic offerings to students.

Participants will man stations in the gymnasium with other professionals in a similar career area. Students will move from station to station to ask questions, listen to career stories, and learn from current and former professionals in the field.

This was set up by Nicole Alonzo, business teacher and the business department.
